

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

BayBio
Matthew M. Gardner, President
(650) 871-7101, ext. 202

BAYBIO WELCOMES NEW BOARD MEMBERS

*Life sciences industry association expands board of directors
To deliver broad agenda*

South San Francisco, Calif. – November 21, 2006 – BayBio today announced the election of thirteen new executives to its board of directors for 2007. This select group joins BayBio in its on-going effort to serve the life sciences industry in Northern California.

“The life sciences industry in Northern California is a bellwether,” said Gregg Alton, Chair of the Board and the Senior Vice President and General Counsel of Gilead Sciences. “As the industry matures we face new opportunities and challenges, and in Northern California these leaders can expect to be prime movers in the development of solutions.”

The new board members for 2007 include Eugene Bauer, Neosil Incorporated; Robert Brigham, Cooley Godward Kronish LLP; Peter Calcott, PDL BioPharma, Inc.; Keith Donnermeyer, Deloitte & Touche LLP; Kareem Dossa, VWR International; Paul Hastings, OncoMed Pharmaceuticals; Hoyoung Huh, Nektar Therapeutics; Caroline Loewy, Poniard Pharmaceuticals; Susan Molineaux, Proteolix, Inc.; Antoun Nabhan, Sagamore Bioventures; Glenn Pierce, Bayer Healthcare; Steve Richardson, Alexandria Real Estate; and Anthony Stolis, Clarkston Consulting.

“This is a group of leaders dedicated to advancing a broad agenda on behalf of our industry,” added Scott Morrison, Treasurer of the Board and U.S. Life Sciences Director, Ernst & Young. “Their commitment to serve is recognition and reminder that success in life sciences depends upon relationships with the public sector. BayBio serves a central part to us all in strengthening those ties.”

The BayBio board of directors plays a key role in defining the life sciences industry to public sector partners, advancing an agenda that serves the life sciences industry, and promoting a business climate to support the industry’s growth.

With the addition of these thirteen new members, the BayBio board of directors has 39 members, of which 26 are executives in life sciences companies, and thirteen of which are employed in key stakeholder organizations, ranging from accounting and law to venture capital and real estate.

About BayBio

BayBio is Northern California's life sciences industry association. We support the regional life sciences community through advocacy, enterprise support and the enhancement of research collaboration. Our members include organizations engaged in, or supportive of, research, development and commercialization of life science technologies. BayBio is the regional affiliate for Northern California of the Biotechnology Industry Organization (BIO).

For more information please visit www.baybio.org or call (650) 871-7101.

###